Alabama County Wage and Salary Survey

November, 2016

PREFACE

BACKGROUND

The Association of County Commissions of Alabama (ACCA) and the Government and Economic Development Institute (GEDI) at Auburn University have partnered to conduct the 2016 Wage and Salary Survey for Alabama county governments. The goal of this research is to provide valuable and useful information about wages, salaries, and benefits for use by Alabama cities. The survey has been conducted every other year since 2004 and the results are available by request from ACCA.

SURVEY INSTRUMENTS

The survey instrument was developed jointly with the Association of County Commissions of Alabama and the Center for Governmental Services (now known as the Government and Economic Development Institute) at Auburn University. It consisted of 87 primary jobs, and allowed respondents to list other jobs not included in the primary jobs.

To improve the usefulness and quality of the data collected, the current survey instrument was updated considerably. Key changes were made to the format of the survey instrument, including updating the list of primary jobs, and revising some of the benefits questions.

SAMPLE

The survey was distributed during the summer of 2016. Every effort was made to obtain all information from every county; however, some counties chose not to respond to the survey and are not included in the results. 56 Alabama counties participated in the study—one of the highest response rates in the survey's history. Not every county had every primary job or answered every question but the number of counties reporting information for each job title is provided in the summary tables.

INDICATORS

The survey requested information on three types of salaries/wages: entry level wage, current or average wage, and maximum wage authorized for each position listed. “Entry level” wage is defined as the salary an employee would receive if hired today. “Current” salary is defined as what an employee is presently being paid (if there is more than one employee, respondents have entered the average of their salaries). “Maximum” wage is the highest salary authorized for each position.

STATISTICAL ANALYSIS

Summary tables for each job title are provided. Several population groups were also created to aid when comparing detailed and summary data on jurisdictions of similar size, but specific county names are kept confidential. The statistics provided for each wage/salary category listed in the summary tables are the averages of that data within each population group.

As is the case with any survey publication, neither the Association of County Commissions of Alabama nor Auburn University can certify the accuracy of the information. The responses contained in this publication are presented as they were recorded in the survey with three exceptions. First, the data was error checked and inconsistent information was corrected or eliminated. Second, when survey respondents provided “hourly” wage/salary information, the corresponding “annual” data was calculated based on the scheduled hours and pay period information provided and vice-versa. Third, when only one value was provided or the same value was entered for all ranges, the duplicate data were eliminated and a single value was entered as the “Current/Average” indicator.

Additionally, some of the information contained herein may have changed between the time the survey was conducted and its publication. Respondents were asked to provide budget information based upon the 2015 - 2016 fiscal year.
