THE PURPOSE OF PLAN

In 2013, the ACCA staff began to explore the benefits of sponsoring a leadership program that would bring county commissioners from across the state together to build upon their leadership skills. The idea was to take commissioners entering their second term of office and give them additional tools to become even more impactful county leaders. Now, almost five years since its inception, the 18-month Passion, Leadership, Accountability and Networking (PLAN) program has positively impacted more than 30 county commissioners from across the state.

The PLAN program, directed by the Association staff, is designed to develop practical and service-oriented leadership skills in its participants so they may become change-makers in their communities and beyond. Through various events, seminars and social outings, the PLAN participants build meaningful relationships with other county and state officials across Alabama — all with the goal of creating a larger sphere of influence for these rising leaders.

THE PLAN 2018 CLASS

The PLAN 2018 class was charged with the development and implementation of a community “passion” project in their home counties. The pages of this booklet only demonstrate a fraction of the commitment these 16 leaders put into cultivating these projects in their home county, and the projects are just one of many assignments designed to challenge participants to move past their comfort zones and put their leadership skills to work.

Over the course of the program, PLAN 2018 leaders learned about the specialized functions of county government, became more actively involved in the Association’s affiliate organizations and its governing boards, and enhanced their leadership skills by participating in instructional sessions. Class members also gained additional hands-on experience advocating for the best interests of county government at both the state and federal level.

Some of the group’s accomplishments include the following:

- Brainstorming and drafting a mission statement for the PLAN program
- Lobbying at the Statehouse in Montgomery
- Engaging in team exercises and leadership training from a nationally-recognized facilitator
- Increasing their knowledge and involvement in the Association’s boards and affiliate organizations
- Developing and implementing new community projects in their home county
