

Inmate Work Release Insurance

Inmates participating in work-release programs often have jobs in construction, maintenance, landscaping, or other injury-prone occupations that involve manual labor. Suppose an inmate is injured or killed while participating in a government-coordinated work-release program; the inmate, their dependents, or medical providers may seek compensation from the entity coordinating the work-release program.

Coverage Summary:

An Accidental Death & Dismemberment (AD&D) policy provides coverage if the inmate is injured or killed on the job. The insured entity will receive a lump-sum payment if the inmate is killed in a covered accident. Optional enhancements include a medical expense benefit that can assist the entity with charges resulting from a covered accident.
